being the favorite colors with the ladies. The attendance is unusually large, probably there are a thousand who will dance in the course of the night, and in addition there are many spectators. The comic side of things is frequently to be seen from the gallery. On the floor at this moment the inevitable very tall fellow is dancing with the very short girl, and viec versa, and the floor is so full that in the round dances the collisions and mishaps are not a few. A very neatfitting little triangular coincidence has just occurred. But never mind, nothing can discourage enthusiastic dancers. Trother Patrick, the President of the College, then feared the degree of A. B. on the following candidates: Thomas Garnett, William J. Foy, Michael Carford, C. P. Cunningham, J. J. Corr, Peter A. McSorley, ring this part of the exercises several selections were by performed by the College orchestra. The valedicty was preneunced by Mr. P. A. McSorley. The Hon. In McKeon then read an address to the graduates, was thankful for the compliment extended to him to sociate with them in the exercises of the day. The set elevating and combiling thoughts were suggested such an occasion as the present. He knew that their ends and relatives were impressed as he was with the mortance of the occasion; considering that they come of the ease of the days of himself the days of the days of the days of himself to the example of the days of himself to the same sans. They would cone there to accomplish triuphs that would be a credit to themselves and shed only and hence on their alma Mater. The power of the days of the days be considered to prepare him for a advantages of government. By whom this sacred the of the days be considered to prepare him for a advantages of government. By whom this sacred that field—a body of men my male and the difference of the days of modern time. This was not the time to scuss such a question. It was their glery in ancient of modern times that they had a body of men engaged that field—a body of men who had served more to ster and preserve some of the higher arts than was nerally supposed. What was more pleasing than the function of the young! Many opponents had been and had chiracterized the labors of that body of men to the advantages of the days of the days of men to the safety and welfare of their labors, and will look back with pride to their labors. "Server selected to he called the modern times was a day of joy, and they had threatening rain in the early part of the evening, a large audience assembled at the hall, and were amply remunerated by the spicy and interesting debate which, with remarkably fine selections well performed by Elen's popular band, composed the exercises.

The idea of the different societies debating for a prize was originated by Jas. Kelly, esq., who in 1858, placed in the hands of the Beard of Education of the Colege $1,000, to be invested, and the annual income thereof forever devoted to providing two gold medals, to be awarded as prizes for excellence in debating, and designated as the first and second Kelly medals. The speakers containing for these medals are chosen by the two literary societies, three from each society, and the six so chosen are the only competitors. The President of the Board of Trustees selects the subject, and submits it to the faculty for approval.

The question presented for discussion has evening was, "Is the whole condition resulting from the influence of a popular form of Government favorable to the growth of splendid National Herature!" The affirmative was sustained by the Phrenocosmian Society, represented by Mesers, Michael H. Cardozo, whose argument was read by Mr. Jessup, he having been prevented by liness from attending in person; Charles A. Doremus, and Charles B. Jessup; and the negative by Mesers, Graham McAdam, Charles H. Nettleion, and Jonas E. Whitley of the Clionian Society. The gentlemen on both sides had evidently carefully considered this abstruse subject, and, in the several arguments presented by them, each evinced a commendable determination to impress the recitinde of his side upon the minds of his judges and auditory, and to win for his society, if the achievement lay in his power, the handsome prize so temptingly held before him.

Besides the Judges, who on this occasion were the Hon. Charles Tracy, the Hon. Jos. F. Daley, the Hon. E. B. Hart, Robert McGinnis, esq., and James S. Barron, esq., there were present on the stage the Hon. Richard L. Larremore, ex-President of the Board of Education: Alexander Webb, esq., President of the College, and James Kelly, esq., the doner of the bone of contention. At intervals during the debate the excreises were enlivened by the performance of the sprightly airs of "Genevieve" by the band, which, after the last nail had been driven into the argument and securely elenched, played the appropriate aria "Sleep well, sweet angel." Gratified indeed were the audience as the sweet strains were poured forth, but what a mockery they seemed to the judges around, into whose bewildered minds had been poured the ponderous hot shot of logic and the keen arrows of sarcasm, upon the merits of which they are expected to decide on Thursday evening, the occasion of the Commencement, at which time all the prizes will be awarded. me time during the delivery of the above it was the address the storm was inevitable, and at this point of the address the storm burst forth with great violence, causing all present to seek a hasty shelter within the college walls. THE DRAMA.

The City of Elms to-day enters upon the festive scenes of Presentation Week, and Yale is the focus of interest and observation. Although the influx WALLACK'S THEATER. "Minnie's Luck" is likewise Brougham's, of outsiders is not so large as at Commencement, the hotels are yet crowded, and the late comers, for whom no for the piece has all the elements of a Summer success. There is a character new to the stage, and only lately in-deed new to the public—that of an "interviewer;" and this Mr. Brougham takes himself, giving it all the case, nature, and joility of life itself, and availing himself of friend has reserved accommodations, are treated to "cots" in hotel pariors or hallways. About the College a spirit of breaking up pervades the air. Seniors, whose active connection with the institution closes on Presentation the topics of the day for a series of random remarks, happily, and, as it were, spontaneously uttered, as only Day, have been selling off their furniture and making ready for departure, and the elms in the College grounds are posted with announcement of farewell sales. Un-der-classmen are "cramming" for the "annuals," and Brougham can. The plot may be described in one line, viz.: "Virtue rewarded and Vice punished," always a sound and a safe motto, for it is always sure of a vast dooking forward to the vacation that succeeds these majority of the audience being in its favor, and testify-ing by hearty applianse when the whips of fate descend kiread ordeals, although to an outsider it might seem that little else was to be done except lounging about the college grounds. Tutors are preparing examicrown the good. Miss Leona Cavender has a part well suited to her abilities, and pleased the audience mightily. Her portraiture of the heroine has touches of nature in out the hardest mathematical nuts for the unprincipled skinner" to break his teeth upon. But Presentation Week, which properly lasts but three days, makes a pleasant break in the direful latter times of the college it, and also of art, that speak well for her future career. Miss Lizzie Price's performance of an impossible print-Wock, which properly lasts but three days, makes a pleasant break in the direful latter times of the college fyear.

This afternoon, in the College Chapel, than which an originer edifice it would be hard to find, as to exterior or Interior, occurred the De Forest speaking. Many years ago a graduate of the College, by the name of Townsend, established six premiums to be awarded for the best six essays by members of the Senior class, on such subjects says from the service of the Faculty. The successful seempeditors for these prizes every year, after adapting their essays for cratery, speak them before the Faculty and public for the De Forest gold medal, or the value of the finding problems and the De Forest medal considered the greatest single honor of the College course. Of Yalensians, nine out of ten would much prefer to be the "De Forest" man than class valedictorian. Every year from 15 to 30 young men in the senior class write for the "Townsend", and with an eye to the ultimate and cerowing honor of the "De Forest." This afternoon at 3, to respectable, but not crowded, audience, had assembled in the chapel, and, punctual to the minute, President Woolsey arose in the elevated box-pew on the right of the high old-fashioned pulpit, and bluntly announced, after his usual fashion, in a thin but distinct voice: "The direct speaker is Mason." A slin, beardiess youth stepped forward, and, bowing to the President, ascended the stage erected before the pulpit, and subjects were as follows: Henry B. Mason, Chicago, Ill.; the first three having for their subject the "Decay of Faith." The speakers and subjects were as follows: Henry B. Mason, Chicago, Ill.; the first three having for their subject the "Decay of Faith." The speakers and subjects were an sollows: A stranger of the fourth of the pulpit of er's devil was a work of the highest artistic merit from beginning to end. She possesses the qualities of pathos and of mirth in equal degrees; she acts with a rare vim-rare, because she hits the happy medium, and never oversteps the modesty of nature; she made a real success with audience and critics, too, and was a very "pretty Dickey" into the bargain. Mr. Stoddart's make up as the Faginesque Maggs was perfect, as was his playing of the part, and Mr. Fisher, who is generally a most notorious villain in the hot weather, luxuriated in the proprieties and decencies of life in the guise of an honest lawyer. Mrs. Mordaunt must be highly praised for the very natural and vigorous assumption of an important character in the piece, that of the negro nurse; and Mr. Barry was all that could be desired in the uphili part of Wreaford. The scenery was excellent and appropriate, the play capi-tally acted for a first night, the audience large and well pleased, and Minnie, John Brougham, the Treasurer. and the public may shake hands with great equanimity on the result of "genial John's" last dramatic infant.

MASSACHUSETTS.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE LEGISLATURE. Boston, June 25.—The Massachusetts Legislature adjourned on Thursday last, after a session of 170 days. This and the session of last year are the longest in the history of the State. Several attempts, no doubt well-meant and sincere, were made to shorten the session; but what appears to have been the general incapacity of the members, rendered the prompt transaction of business impossible, while the difficulty was enhanced by a pretty steady succession of disagreements between the Heuse and Senate, and to this it must be added that neither body seemed to have any fixed or determinate opinions, and both were constantly engaged in the work of reconsideration and amendment. It must be admitted, to the reality. The first three sentiments, in general denying and high-toned in their sentiments, in general denying that there was any real decay of faith at the present day, which it is exceedingly gratifying to hear. The speaker on the great debate between Webster and Hayne, treated the subject a little too philosophically and with too little neither body seemed to have any faced or determinate opinions, and both were constantly engaged in the work of reconsideration and amendment. It must be admitted, however, that many of the questions which came before the General Court were exceedingly difficult of adjustment, and might well have bothered the most dexterous of law-manufacturers.

But the most curious feature of this session was the number of laws and resolves which were proposed, and which in the end, after consuming a great deal of time as well as of money, came finally to nothing. There was infinite debate, an unlimited calling of the Yeas and Nays, and much ingenuity in amendments, but the mortality among the bills was predestinate and steady. Specially, there was exhibited a passion for amending the Constitution of the State. It was proposed in the first place to shorten sessions by fixing the salaries of the members. The resolve was referred, and was never heard of again in its original form. When it got back to the House, it had been transmogrified into an amendment, lengthening the terms of Senators to three years and of Representatives to two years; and in this shape the resolve met its fate at the hands of the House. The same ill fortune overtook an amendment abolishing the payment of taxes as a suffrage qualification. The amendment abolishing the ability to read and write as a qualification, was carried in both branches and goes to the next General Court. An amendment prohibiting the loaning of the credit of the State to any individual or corporation, was one carried in both branches and goes to the next General Court. An amendment prohibiting the loaning of the credit of the State to any individual or corporation, was one carried in both branches and superior Courts. So did a proposition to abolish the State Board of Health was much debated, and was a failure. Another, to abolish the office of Surpeon-General, like wise feli through. So did a bill providing for the appointment of an officer in each police for the state body in charita Seal. With such preparation and well-resemble with the control of the control of

The XIVth Assembly District German Democratic Association met last evening, and listened to many denunciatory speeches in relation to the conduct of Senator Thomas G. Creamer, who was charged with betraying the German Democrats at the last Aldermanic election, in placing Mr. McKleyer on the ticket instead of the Chairman of some German Committee, as he had promised. It was stated that a careful canvass of the Seventeenth Ward and part of another Ward in the Senatorial District, showed that at the next Fall election 14,000 German Democrate votes would be cast against Senator Creamer and in favor of ex-Senator Charles G. Among the recent distiguished arrivals at Salt Lake City was Olive Logan.

The Victoria Rifles of Montreal the other day presented a gold-headed cane to L. E. Smith, American Consul at St. John's, in recognition of his endeavor to prevent the Fenian raid.

The Prince of Wales, while driving home from the Derby, lifted his hat to a group of ladies and by accident dropped a glove. The fair ones scrambled for it in the dirt, " his Royal Highness laughing heartily."

Emile de Girardin, the Parisian journalist, now that he is appointed to the Senate, wishes to sell his paper, Le Liberte, which has been the best in Paris for five years. He claims to have a new idea every day, at the same heur, and does all his thinking at a fixed time, devoting fifteen minutes daily to it. He is a short, bigheaded man, near-sighted, clumsy, and probably the wittiest journalist in Europe.

GENERAL NOTES.

By an unfortunate blunder The Journal of the Telégraph enumerated eleven persons, two of whom were ladies, as "dismissed" from telegraphic posts by their superintendents. They should have been mentioned their superintendents. They should have been mentioned as "resigned," having entered upon other duties, perhaps, in the case of the ladies, on account of the most delightful of all occasions for resignation. The paper apologizes with deep contrition for the unintended oftense, and mends matters by mentioning that the names of the resigned were mixed up with those of some drunker men.

Now that the seven champions of Christendom have been succeeded by 7,000 champions, whose ex-oloits are a trifle less romantic, it is becoming a little edious to record the cities that are distinguished by the tedious to record the effice that are distinguished by the possession of one or more such heroes and the chivalric peculiarities they respectively claim. Springfield, Ohlo, however, insists upon being heard, and possessing a porter in a hotel who can swing up a trunk weighing 800 pounds, wisnes it proclaimed abroad that her "champion baggage tosser" throws down his gage—say a "Saratoga" packed with Congressional documents—and defies the world.

A pun upon a slang phrase, perpetrated in a material form, is traveling around the country. It is simply a dilapidated shoe, fastened between two old book covers, on which is pasted a picture of a prominent public man driving off flies with a broom. This curious missive travels from post-office to post-office. It is stamped with the post marks of cities in Hilmois, in Oregon, on the Pacific Raifrond, on the Panama steam-ship route. When last heard of, it was on the way from Cincinnati to New-Orleans. Each recipient, after study-ing out the engma, posts it to a new station, and pro-longs the wanderings of the "shoe fly."

The plan of providing cottages for working people, which has met with such success in France, has been more than once described in these columns. Something of a similar character has been suggested for the thing of a similar character has been suggested for the needy working women of Massachusetts; land and homes to be supplied by the State or by private benevolence. A society, entitled the "Women's Economical Garden Homestead League," has been organized, of which Miss Phelps, widely known by her efforts in behalf of working women, is President. The League will hold a Convention at the Meionian, in Boston, on the 30th inst., beginning at 10 a. m. Eminent speakers will address the meeting, and plans for the accomplishment of this beneficent undertaking will be discussed.

Some of the circumstances which complicate our relations with Indians, if they afford no excuse for savage retaliation, would at least be considered a casus belli among civilized nations. A mining company adbelli among civilized nations. A mining company advertised in the California papers is making preparations to send forward to districts in Arizona, Sonora, and New-Mexico their first detachment of 100 men, on or about the 15th of July. "The men will be armed to the teeth, and go prepared to cope with the hostile Indians," says the notice. They are to establish bases of supply, and in general adopt military as well as mining tactics. Probably the Indians regard such pioneers very much as Canadians think of Fenians, and perhaps even a peace society might deem resistance advisable if their native land should be invaded by armed men.

THE LONG BRANCH RACE MEETING-THE PRO-

GRAMME OF PURSES OFFERED. The managers of the Long Branch Racing Association have just issued their programme of purses to be run for at the forthcoming meeting which com-mences on July 20, and continues over five days. The liberality which actuates this enterprising Association may be judged from the fact that they give in purses and stakes the munificent and princely amount of $11,000 to be run for. On the first day there is a hurdle race for a purse of $1,000, followed by the Continental Hotel stakes purse of $1,000, followed by the Continental Hotel stakes for 3-year olds, mile heats, $30 each p. p., with $1,000 added by the proprietor of the hotel, which gives the stake its name. There are 27 entries for this race, among them such proved good racers as Engdier, Harbinger, Foster, Maggie B. B., and Lynchburg. The third race on this day is the Monmouth siakes, two miles and a haif, for all ages, $50 each, p. p., with $1,500 added, which has 21 horses entered, and among them Heimbold, which has 21 horses entered, and among them Heimbold, which has 25 horses entered, and among them Heimbold, which has 25 horses entered, onthe second day we have the Manusion House stakes for three year-clds, $50 each, p. p., with $1,000 added by Mr. Laird, two-mile dash, each carrying 100 pounds, which closed with 25 nominations. Next is a purse of $700, for all ages, carrying 100 pounds.

ner. A two-mile heat race for a purse of $1,000 closes the day's sport.

On the fourth day, the racing opens with the Robins stakes for three-year-olds, carrying 100 B, two-mile heats, which has 25 nominations at $20 each, p. p., with $3,000 added by the Association. Among the entries are such horses as Enquirer, Kingfisher, Leiand, Foster, Susan Ann, Maggie E, B, and Lynchburg. Next comes a two-year-old race for a purse of $500, and a race for gentleman riders for an elegant silver cup. On the last day there is a hurdle race for a purse of $600, and a race for gentleman riders for an elegant silver cup. On the last day there is a hurdle race for a purse of $60,00, which closed with 15 nominations. Among them are such famous racers as Sundown, Plantagenet, Abdel Kader, Invercand, Flora McIvor, Blarney-Stone, Nannie Doughs and Carrie Atherton. The last race of the day and meeting is the Tweed purse of $1,000 for leaten horses—the gift of the Hon, William M. Tweed. The distance is a mile and a half, and allowances in weight are made for horses beaten more than once at the meeting. There is every prespect of a brilliantly-successful meeting at Long Brauch this Summer.

BASE-BALL. UNIONS VS. ATHLETICS.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—About 2,000 persons witnessed the base ball game between the Unions of Morrisania and Athletics of this city to-day. It was a first-class nuffin game by both clubs. A. Halliach of the Keystone Club acted as umpire. In the eighth inning, the Athletics made a most extraordinary run of 23 by heavy butting assisted by poor fielding. In the last inning the Unions changed pitcher, and the game closed 51 to 20 in favor of the Athletics. The Athletics made five home runs and the Unions four. The following is the score:

Harvard, and Bentley, of the University nine, caught eye with the ball, but no permanent injury was done

him. Large numbers of students from both Colleges were present, and at the conclusion of the game, which was won by Yale, their comrades carried them upon their shoulders from the field. The score follows:

STEAMBOAT TO DELAWARE. A new source of supply of food products for the City of New-York is opened to-day by steamboat communication with the Delaware Peninsula. The pro-peller Washington leaves Pier 21 East River at 4 p. m., for Lewes, inside of the Harbor of the Delaware Break-water, where terminates the Junction Railroad, which unites all the other railroads of the peninsula with the coast, and figuratively speaking, brings the land to the sea. The distance from New-York by water is the same as that of Albany (144 miles), whereas by rail it is 240 miles. The freight of the long inland transport is prohibitory on all farm products excepting those which bear a fancy price, like Peaches, Strawberries, &c. Hereafter we shall receive from this source supplies of all the staple vegetables; no doubt at such a reduction of price as the cheaper freight will warrant.

The Delaware peninsula has been named, not inaptly, the natural garden of New-York. It contains near 2,000,ooc acres of the most fertile land on the Atlantic coast, closely resembling the richest parts of New-Jersey. It closely resembling the richest parts of New-Jersey. It has a semi-tropical luxuriance and variety of products, and, in Spring, vegetation is but two or three days behind Norfolk. Last year it furnished us with nearly 2,000,000 baskets of Peaches, and 33,000 bushels of small borries. The Blackberry is so abundant in some places, that the farmers get a greater return from the wild bushes around their corn-fields than from the corn itself. The Whortleberry thrives in perfection. We are told that hundreds of tuns of this fruit have ripened and rotted for many years in the Delaware swamps, because the cost of getting it to market was greater than any profit to be made by picting.

While lying apparently drunk on the sidewalk in Palisade-ave., Win. Connell and Win L. Rhead came along at 2 a. in., yesterday, and carried the roundsman, who appeared to be very drunk, into a back street, where one of them set about relieving Roundsman Weston of his watch and gold chain, &c., while the other stood as sentinci at the end of the street. No sooner had the watch and chain been seized than Roundsman Weston sprang to his feet, and after a brief struggle secured the robber, whereupon his companion attempted to make his escape, but the

On the 1sth of Jaynary, Mrs. Moone deposited $200 in the bank in her own name, receiving as evidence of the deposit, a bank-book in which her name and the deposit were entered. Twenty-five doilars of the money belonged to her husband, and the remaining $175 was her own. A few days subsequent, Mrs. Moone called at the bank and requested the actuary to add the name of her husband to her own on the books of the bank, giving it as a reason, that she wished to guard against accident. Her request was compiled with. Mrs. Moone and her husband separated by mutual agreement a short time after, and she then called on the defendants and told them not to pay the money to her husband, who had got possession of the bank book. About a mouth after, Mr. Moone called at the bank, and presenting the bank-book, was paid the money. Justice McGuire decided in favor of the plaintiff, basing his decision on the by-laws and rules of the bank which prescribed that a written order from the absent person was necessary to entitle the other to draw the money.

The Turnverein of the West Side, originated nd organized by the New-York Turnverein, last night Gerke delivered an address, in which he alluded to the fact that the benefits of the noble practice of a system of physical and mental training which can only be expressed by the German word Turnen, have been fully appreciated only by the ancient Greeks and Germans. The Humboldt Liedertafel Vocal seciety and several glee clubs entertained the audience by their vocal performances. The new Turnverein numbers 150 members, and is in a prosperous condition.
